

PRESIDENT

Historically impressive, academically distinctive, and educationally important, Ohio Dominican University (ODU) is making a substantive difference in the lives of its students and the surrounding community. Located in Columbus, Ohio, the state capital and the nation's 16th largest city, the University's urban proximity offers a full complement of educational, cultural, and recreational advantages. ODU is poised for talented new leadership to build on current institutional momentum and meet the educational needs of its expanding external constituencies.

As the comprehensive, liberal arts Catholic University serving central Ohio with a variety of professional and career-oriented programs, Ohio Dominican now enrolls over 3,000 students in undergraduate and master's level programs. Long known for its successful outreach to first-generation college students, ODU's student body reflects rich diversity with 25 percent ethnic minorities and nearly 40 percent of its learners age 25 or over. The University's location, people, and programs provide the next president with a trove of resources for significant educational enrichment and robust collaboration beyond the campus boundaries.

In 2011, ODU will commemorate the 100th anniversary of its founding by celebrating a century of meaningful influence by the Dominican Congregation on the University's quality of life and educational programs. A new president will have the distinct opportunity to reinforce ODU's Catholic heritage, while working to enhance the academic program, create the next iteration of a strategic plan, stimulate the resource base, and maintain the University's overall fiscal equilibrium.
